

THE CARE SHOW 2018: Repose targets care homes with specialist seating solutions

Access Best Practice Business Business Practice Equipment

Furnishing & fixtures Innovation Solutions

October 19, 2018

Repose Managing Director Lisa Wardley

Repose has targeted care home providers with its specialist Boston and Harlem Porter specialist seating solutions at The Care Show 2018.

The ranges, which are suitable for elderly people with neurological conditions, including dementia and Huntington's, provide numerous health and well-being benefits, including providing postural and pressure care support and helping with circulation and agitation.

Managing director Lisa Wardley told CHP: "This is our first care home show and it has gone well. The response has been very good. People have liked the colour and quality and the different options we provide."

Story continues below ▼

Advertisement

The dementia friendly products come in water proof, anti-MRSA and easily washable fabrics. Replaceable pressure management cushions ensure chairs can be adapted to meet people's needs.

Offering comfort and security, the chairs are easy to access during bed transfers, reducing the risk of falls and reliance on hoist support.

Available in a manual or electric model, The Boston combines Tilt in Space and independently controlled back recline and leg elevation so that carer's can adjust the user's position to relieve pressure and provide all-day comfort.